SUBJECT TO CHANGE

CREDENTIALS

Seating at Conseco Fieldhouse's press tables is restricted to accredited working media representatives. Non-working media will be seated in reserved seat areas when seats are available. IT IS STRONGLY REQUESTED THAT YOU SIT IN YOUR ASSIGNED SEAT.

You may request credentials by sending an email from a company account to David Benner (dbenner@pacers.com) and Krissy Myers (kmyers@pacers.com). Single-game credentials must be requested no later than noon the day before the game (Friday noon for Sunday games).

Credentials are good for admittance to the Fieldhouse, media room and home and visiting locker rooms.

Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up before the game at the media entrance.

MEDIA MEMBERS HOLDING PACERS' SEASON PASSES SHOULD NOTIFY THE PUBLIC INFORMATION DEPARTMENT IF PLANNING TO COVER A GAME IN ORDER TO RESERVE SEATING.

MEDIA ENTRANCE

The media entrance is located at the southeast corner of Conseco Fieldhouse, off of Delaware Street. Only media members who hold Indiana Pacers or NBA media credentials will be admitted through this entrance.

BILL YORK MEDIA ROOM

Located on the Event Level of Conseco Fieldhouse in the southeast corner, it is accessible by either elevator or stairs near the media entrance.

We must limit media room usage to members of the media only when valid Pacers or NBA media passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests or others.

The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for the media and game personnel. Any abuse of the media room and / or media privileges will cause forfeiture of your media pass.

SERVICES

Complete statistics, along with pregame notes, lineups, information regarding injuries and other pertinent facts will be furnished by the Pacers' Public Information Department.

Play-by-play and halftime boxscores will be delivered directly to the press table. Complete final boxscores, fourth-quarter play-by-plays and postgame quotes and notes will be available following the game in the media room.

Wireless internet access is available in the media room and the seating bowl. Login information can be found on the front of your media credential.

LOCKER ROOMS

Both the Pacers' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and 15 minutes after the game.

Cell phone use by media is prohibited inside team dressing rooms.

PHOTOGRAPHERS' GUIDELINES

Only those photographers on assignment will be allowed space on the floor and their photo credentials must be worn prominently at all times.

Photographers are allowed only within the designated photographers' area at each end of the court. Spaces will be assigned by the Public Information Department.

All photographers and TV cameramen must stay at least four feet behind the baseline at all times. In the event it is not physically possible to achieve this in certain arenas, an appropriate standard will be determined by the Public Information Department and the NBA.

Photographers cannot shoot from public walkways or vomitories.

When placing tape on the playing floor, authorization must be received from a member of the Pacers Sports & Entertainment's Public Information Department or Facilities Division.

NOTE: Photos are for accredited media outlets only. Selling of photos for any purposes is strictly prohibited and will result in forfeiture of credential.

No still photography is permitted in either team's locker room.

TV NEWS CREWS

Credential requests must be received by noon the day of the game.

News crews are restricted to crowd interviews in the Entry Pavilion, Balcony Level and Main Concourses. Interviews are not allowed in the vomitories on any level of Conseco Fieldhouse. News crews are not allowed on the FedEx or Krieg DeVault Club Levels, unless accompanied by a member of the Public Information Department. In order to enter a Suite, each news crew must have permission from the individual Suite Holder to enter their respective Suite. Once permission is granted, the news crew must inform a member of the Public Information Department, and then will be accompanied into the Suite by a member of the Public Information Department.

During game action, news crews must shoot crowd reaction from designated areas. Check with the Public Information Department for locations. No interviews will be allowed within the seating bowl once game action begins.

PRACTICE INFORMATION

On non-game days, information on media availability for Pacers' practices can be obtained by calling David Benner's voice mail at (317) 917-2851. Information will be updated by 10:00 a.m. the day of each practice.

Eight teams in each conference qualify for NBA Playoffs 2011 which begin on Saturday, April 16. The first four seeds in each conference will continue to be given to the three division winners and the team with the next best regular season record, but these four teams will now be seeded in order of their regular season records. The remaining four teams are ranked Nos. 5-8 according to their won-lost records. The team with the better regular season won-lost record has homecourt advantage in each round of the playoffs.

Mr. Simon, together with Melvin, led the company to a leadership position within the industry which it continues to maintain today. Some of the "breakthrough" retail projects that have drawn worldwide industry and media attention under Simon leadership include The Forum Shops at Caesars in Las Vegas, Nev., The Fashion Centre at Pentagon in the Washington, D.C. metro area and Circle Centre in Indianapolis, Ind., one of the key components in the revitalization of the city's downtown. Mr. Simon helped lead the effort to build another key component for downtown, Conseco Fieldhouse, which is the Pacers' home. It is widely regarded as one of the best, if not the best, indoor arenas in the world.

Mr. Simon, with his late brother Melvin, purchased the Pacers in 1983 to ensure the team would stay in Indianapolis and currently is Owner/CEO of Pacers Sports & Entertainment.

A firm supporter of professional, environmental and community groups, Mr. Simon has served on the Boards of numerous organizations and served a term as Chairman of the NBA Board of Governors.

Mr. Simon is married and has seven children.

LARRY BIRD
PRESIDENT/BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

As a player, Larry Bird was driven to win. As a coach, he was driven to win. Now in his role as the Indiana Pacers' President of Basketball Operations, Bird's steering wheel remains firmly in place.

When Bird took the helm full time in the spring of 2008 after Donnie Walsh left for the New York Knicks, change was in the air. It started with the June, 2008, NBA draft when Bird orchestrated two trades that brought in seven new players and has continued through the draft, free agency and trades, including the summer of 2010 trade that brought point guard Darren Collison from New Orleans to the Pacers. The Pacers have missed the playoffs four straight years – after a run of nine straight and 16 of 17 years in the postseason – and the highly competitive Bird wants a return . . . and more.

"The first goal is to get back in the playoffs and you do that by getting a core of players to build around," said Bird. "We've got good, young players and an All-Star in Danny Granger who should all get better. It will take time, I know it's going to be tough. I think I know how to do most of it. Hopefully, we can get back to the NBA Finals again. That's our goal. Right now, it's not to win a championship, but to get to the Finals and give ourselves an opportunity to win."

Bird certainly knows how to win with a resume to back it up. The Hoosier basketball legend (he was born in West Baden, Ind., 12/7/1956) was an Indiana All-Star after playing at Springs Valley High School. He played collegiately at Indiana State and in his senior year, led the Sycamores to an undefeated season and the NCAA championship game before losing to Magic Johnson and Michigan State. That season, Bird was the College Player of the Year. His storied success led to him being named one of Indiana's 50 Greatest Basketball Players in 1999.

Then, in 13 seasons as a professional with Boston, he was named the NBA's 1980 Rookie of the Year; was a 12-time NBA All-Star; three-time NBA MVP; helped lead the Celtics to three world championships, winning two NBA Finals MVP awards; won an Olympic gold medal in 1992 as part of the United States' "Dream Team"; was named one of the NBA's 50 Greatest Players in 1996; and was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in 1998. This summer, Bird entered the Hall of Fame again as the 1992 "Dream Team" was inducted.

After his playing career, Bird's next challenge was coaching and he that as well. In three seasons with the Pacers, he led them to a 147-67 record, winning Coach of the Year honors in 1998 and leading the team to its first-ever NBA Finals appearance in 2000. The Pacers reached the Conference Finals in all three of his seasons, winning two Central Division championships and in 1998, Bird earned Eastern Conference All-Star coaching honors. He returned to the franchise July 11, 2003, in his current role, driven to win again. "I'm in this to win championships and that's the bottom line."

In his role with the Pacers, Bird oversees the basketball operations of the franchise, from the coaches to budgeting to player personnel to scouting to contract negotiations to the training staff.

Walsh, the former Pacers CEO/President said, "I think this is going to be the beginning of a new era in Pacers basketball. I think he is the perfect person to be here in Indiana, to take this team forward for the long haul. It has always been my dream, that when I gave up my job, that there's a guy in place who can take this franchise and keep it at a very high level. And I think Larry can do that."

Added Bird, "This is my home state, this is the place I wanted to do it. I just want to win basketball games. I want to help the Pacers get to the places they've never been before."

From the day he stepped into the front office, Bird seemed to have an impact. Together with Walsh, they decided in the summer of 2003 to not have Coach Isiah Thomas return for the final year of his contract. They tapped Rick Carlisle to replace Thomas. Carlisle, a former assistant with Bird when he was coach of the Pacers, had led Detroit to two 50-win seasons, two Central Division championships and earned a Coach of the Year honor in 2002 before being fired by the Pistons. He was Bird's obvious, and first, choice to step in. It was his first major move.

The result was a milestone season for the Pacers in 2003-04. They set franchise records for victories (61), winning percentage (.744), road victories in their NBA history (27) and won the Central Division Championship. They also reached the Eastern Conference Finals before bowing to eventual World Champion Detroit, four games to two. In 2004-05, the Pacers returned to the playoffs and reached the Eastern Conference Semifinals. They had a 44-38 record despite a season where they lost players for 309 games due to injury or illness and another 126 due to suspension.

Then in 2005-06, the Pacers finished with a 41-41 record, despite having 236 games lost due to injury. Still, they made the playoffs again.

Following the 2006-07 season, Carlisle and the Pacers agreed to part ways after the team missed the playoffs for the first time in 10 years. Bird quietly conducted his coaching search, eventually landing Jim O'Brien, who met the standards Bird was looking for.

"We have a vision of where we want this team to go, from how we are going to practice, to how we are going to play and the style we're going to play," said Bird. "We are on the same page and I feel Jim is the guy who will take us to the next level. The direction I want to go, he's the guy that's going to get us there."

Despite setbacks, the Pacers didn't step back, they have looked ahead. That's Bird's way.

Stepping into a situation and making the most of it isn't new to Bird. In his first year as coach, he took over a veteran team that had missed the playoffs the previous season. For the third time in the previous five seasons, the Pacers reached Game 7 of the Eastern Conference Finals, this time extending the World Champion Chicago Bulls. Coming into the playoffs, the Pacers not only made the NBA pay attention, they made franchise history at the time. They had 58 victories, the most since joining the NBA in 1976; their .707 winning percentage was the best in the Pacers' history, including their storied ABA days; they were 26-15 on the road, a franchise NBA best, and had the best road record of any Eastern Conference team. The Pacers amazingly didn't lose two straight games in the regular season after December 10, and through the All-Star break, the Pacers had the best record in the East, thus earning Bird All-Star coaching honors.

The next season, the Pacers won the Central Division and reached the Eastern Conference Finals. In 2000, there was another Central Division championship and the trip to the NBA Finals.

Bird then, as he promised at the beginning, stepped away from coaching after three seasons. Three years later, Walsh called again and Bird came back home again to Indiana.

Bird is married to Dinah. He has three children, Corrie, Connor and Mariah. He is an avid golfer and outdoorsman, while enjoying country music and auto racing.

JIM MORRIS
PRESIDENT

Jim Morris is in his fourth year with Pacers Sports & Entertainment, his third as the franchise's president.

Morris joined PS&E in 2007 as a Special Advisor to then CEO/President Donnie Walsh and was named President, April 16, 2008. Prior to joining the Pacers, Morris has had a career that has been successful, both professionally and philanthropically. A graduate of Indiana University with a master's degree from Butler University, Morris has spent much of his life in Indianapolis in a variety of key positions. He started with American Fletcher National Bank in 1965 after graduating from IU and from 1967-73 served under former Mayor Richard G. Lugar as chief of staff. He then went to the Lilly Endowment, serving as its president from 1984-88 and from 1989-2002, he was the chairman and chief executive officer for IWC Resources Corporation and Indianapolis Water Company.

Before joining PS&E, Morris was the executive director for five years for the United Nations World Food Programme (WFP) where he oversaw the world's largest humanitarian agency. That rewarding position took him to many oppressed parts of the world as he worked on behalf of the hungry poor, particularly children.

Morris has received many honors, including 16 honorary degrees, throughout his life in recognition for service, particularly in the city of Indianapolis. He has also served on numerous boards and committees – including the chairman of the Indiana University Board of Trustees, treasurer of the United States Olympic Committee and a member of the Board of Governors of the American Red Cross – devoting countless hours to various causes. He is currently Chairman of the Riley Foundation. His interests reflect this: community development, core city revitalization; enhancing opportunities for young people, especially those at-risk; developing world issues; building a sense of community; fund-raising; philanthropy; and the independent sector.

Morris is married to Jackie and they have three children and seven grandchildren.

RICK FUSON
CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Since joining the Pacers' organization in 1984, Rick Fuson has been influential in shaping events within Market Square Arena, Conseco Fieldhouse and many other events elsewhere in Indianapolis.

A graduate of Indiana University and a life-long resident of Indianapolis, he joined the staff of Market Square Arena in 1984 as director of special events and was promoted the following year to vice president. Fuson helped oversee the Pacers' move to Conseco Fieldhouse in September 2000. He was promoted to Executive Senior Vice President of Pacers Sports & Entertainment in November 2001. Rick was named Chief Operating Officer in April 2008. In his current role, Fuson is responsible for operation of all aspects of the business and facilities elements of Pacers Sports & Entertainment.

Through the years, Fuson has been active in pursuing major events for Conseco Fieldhouse and the City of Indianapolis. In the past, he was a member of the Executive Committee for the 1991 World Gymnastics Championships and served as chairman for the opening ceremonies. He was co-chairman of special events for the 1991, 1997 and 2000 NCAA Final Four, served on the Local Organizing Committee for the 2006 and 2010 NCAA Final Four. He produced the opening ceremonies of the 2001 World Police & Fire Games and the closing ceremonies of the Pan American Games in 1987. Fuson also served on the Local Organizing Committee for the 2002, 2004, 2006, 2008-2010 Big Ten Basketball Championships, 2002 FIBA World Basketball Championships, and 2004 FINA World Swimming Championship. He is currently serving on the 2012 Super Bowl Committee.

Throughout his career, he has received such honors as Recipient of the Indianapolis Ambassadors 1988 Community Service Award, Indianapolis Business Journal's "Who's Who in Hospitality", "Who's Who in Sports" and "Forty Under Forty." He has also been active with the Indianapolis Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the 1985 NBA All-Star weekend, the grand opening of the Indianapolis Zoo in 1988, the White River Park State Games and Indianapolis Downtown Space 2010.

Fuson is a professional member of the International Association of Assembly Managers. He currently serves on the Board of Directors for Indianapolis Downtown, Inc. and Greater Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce. He also is a member of the executive committee of the Indiana Sports Corporation and Pacers Foundation.

Rick has three children and one grandchild: Amy, Emily, Matthew and Jackson.

DAVID MORWAY
GENERAL MANAGER

David Morway is in his 12th season with the Pacers, his third as the team's General Manager.

Morway joined the franchise in February, 1999. He previously was the Senior Vice President of Basketball Operations and was responsible for the day-to-day operation and administration of the Basketball Division. As General Manager, he retains those duties and will also oversee salary cap issues and assist Basketball President Larry Bird in personnel decisions.

"I'm very happy to have David by my side," said Bird. "This newly-expanded role maximizes David's skills and experience and I'm confident we have the knowledge and resources to get the Pacers to the level we expect, our owners expect and our fans expect."

Morway has a vast sports background. He served as Assistant to the President for the San Diego Padres from 1985-88, where he was involved in contract analysis and negotiation. He also designed and implemented programs in player relations, team employee assistance and customer relations.

From 1988-95, Morway started and was President of Professional Excellence Sports, Inc. (Pro Ex), a sports management firm. Morway represented more than 75 clients, including David Benoit, Ed Gray, former Pacers' player Micheal Williams, as well as Junior Seau, Darren Woodson, Chris Naeole and Tony Clark.

Pro Ex was incorporated into DSM International in 1995 and Morway remained with the company until 1998. A 1982 graduate of the University of Arizona, Morway also has a law degree from the University of San Diego. He is married to Karen and they have two sons, Robbie and Michael.

FRANK VOGEL
INTERIM HEAD COACH

Frank Vogel was named interim head coach, Jan. 30, replacing Jim O'Brien. The 37-year-old Vogel was in his eighth season as an assistant coach and is in his 14th NBA season overall. He is currently the youngest head coach in the NBA.

Vogel got his start in the NBA as the head video coordinator with the Boston Celtics under Rick Pitino. He served in that role from 1997-2001 before becoming an assistant coach with the Celtics under O'Brien, following O'Brien as an assistant in Philadelphia and in 2007 with the Pacers. Vogel spent two seasons as an advance scout for the Los Angeles Lakers (2005-06) and Washington Wizards (2006-07).

Vogel is a graduate of the University of Kentucky with a degree in biology and became the Wildcats video coordinator after graduation. He attended Juniata College in Huntington, Pa., where he was a three-year starter for the Division III Eagles. He then transferred to Kentucky, became a student manager and played on the junior varsity team in 1996.

Frank and his wife, Jenifer, have two daughters, Alexa and Arianna.

Vogel's Record as Interim Head Coach: 20-18

DAN BURKE
ASSISTANT COACH

Dan Burke is in his 22nd year in professional basketball and his 14th season with the Pacers. During his first eight seasons with the Pacers, the 51-year-old Burke has served as assistant coach and scouting director.

Prior to joining the Pacers, Burke spent eight years with the Portland Trail Blazers (1989-1997) as video coordinator and scout. In his 21 years, he has been fortunate to learn from a variety of successful coaches, including Larry Bird, Rick Adelman, Isiah Thomas, P.J. Carlesimo, Rick Carlisle, Mike Brown and Jim O'Brien

Born in Lynwood, Calif., Burke calls Sherwood, Ore., home. He graduated from Portland State with a bachelor's degree in history and in social science. He enjoys time with his family, various outdoor activities, fishing, reading and NASCAR. Burke is married to Peggy and they have two daughters, Melissa and Lindsey.

JAY DeFRUSCIO
ASSISTANT COACH

After a successful 18-year head coaching career at Wheeling (West Virginia) Jesuit University, DeFruscio will be in his fourth season in the NBA.

While at Wheeling Jesuit, DeFruscio compiled a 311-212 record with four straight 20-win seasons and two NCAA Division II tournament appearances. He was named West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Coach of the Year twice and NAIA District 28 Coach of the Year once. He also served as the school's athletic director for 20 years.

The 49-year-old (born 11/4/60) DeFruscio is a native of Drexel Hill, Pa., and earned a degree in economics from Ursinus College. He was a four-year letter winner at Ursinus while playing in the Division III Final Four in 1981 and Elite Eight in 1982. He is a member of the Ursinus College Athletic Hall of Fame, the Monsignor Bonner High School Athletic Hall of Fame and Wheeling Jesuit University Athletic Hall of Fame

He also has an MBA from Wheeling Jesuit and served as an adjunct professor in the business program. In 2008, he received the school's Distinguished Alumnus Award. While at Wheeling, he wrote a regular column for the local newspaper on the value of athletics and sportsmanship.

DeFruscio is married to Cathy and they have four children, Katie, Hooter, Annie and Lucy.

WALTER McCARTY
ASSISTANT COACH

Walter McCarty joins the Pacers' coaching staff after spending three years as an assistant coach under Rick Pitino at the University of Louisville.

The 36-year-old McCarty is a native of Evansville, Ind., and was an Indiana All-Star. He played collegiately at the University of Kentucky, where he was part of the Wildcats' NCAA championship team in 1996. A first-round pick of the New York Knicks (19th overall) in 1996, McCarty played for the Knicks, Boston Celtics, Phoenix Suns and Los Angeles Clippers before retiring after 10 seasons in the NBA and joining Pitino's staff.

While with the Celtics, McCarty was very active in the team's community outreach program, earning NBA Hometown Hero of the Month honors in 2001. In 2002, McCarty founded the I Love Music Foundation to promote the positive aspects of music and to support the growth of music for you in the greater Boston area as well as Evansville.

McCarty had a cameo appearance in the 1998 film "He Got Game" as the character "Mance." He also sang the National Anthem prior to All-Star Saturday Night on the eve of the 2006 NBA All-Star game and he released an R&B/soul CD in 2003 titled "Moment of Love."

McCarty earned a B.A. in communications at Kentucky in 1996. He and his wife Erin have two daughters: Gabrielle and Sasha.

VITALY POTAPENKO
ASSISTANT COACH
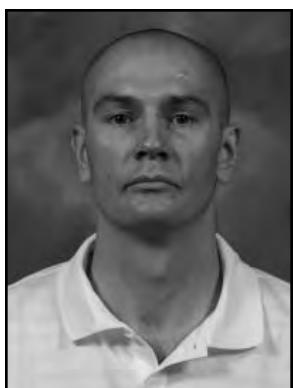

Vitaly Potapenko (vee-TAH-lee poe-TAH-pen-koe) is in his first season as an assistant coach with the Pacers. Potapenko played in the NBA from 1996 to 2007 with Cleveland (first-round draft pick, 12th overall in 1996), Boston, Seattle and Sacramento. While with the Celtics, Vitaly made history by being the first player to score in Conseco Fieldhouse when the building opened in 1999.

After the NBA, Potapenko played professionally in Spain in 2007-08 and last season he served as an assistant coach with the Fort Wayne Mad Ants of the National Basketball Association Development League. The 35-year-old Potapenko is a native of Kiev, USSR, and played collegiately at Wright State (Ohio) University.

The first Pacers' player to have over 400 assists in a season since 2007, he led Indiana with 403 and an average of 5.1 apg that ranked 26th best in the NBA

He had four games with 10+ assists, including consecutive games with 11 vs. Washington, 4/6, and 10 against the Hawks, 4/8.

He had a season-best 13 assists at Philadelphia, 1/11, and 12 at New Jersey, 3/21.

His 13 assists against the Sixers at Wells Fargo Arena was one of just four games in his first 34 appearances in which had seven or more assists. In his remaining 48 games he had at least seven assists 17 times, including a stretch of five straight games in March.

He averaged just 4.8 apg in 41 appearances before the Pacers' coaching change, but then averaged more than five and a half assists a game (5.42) in his final 38 games.

The fifth of his seven assists vs. Milwaukee, 4/1, was the 800th of his NBA career.

One of two Indiana players with more than 80 steals (87) this season, his average of 1.10 ranked 46th in the NBA and second best on the team.

He captured a career-high tying five steals vs. Milwaukee, 11/5, and that was the most thefts in a single game by any Indiana player this season.

For the season, he had at least three thefts twice in his first 28 games and then did so six times in the first 25 games of 2011. After having three steals vs. Detroit, 2/23, his only game with more than two steals was the finale at Orlando, 4/13, where he had three in just 12 minutes.

At the midway point of the season, his field goal percentage dipped below 45 percent to 44.8 percent after he shot just 2-10 in a loss at Denver, 1/23. From that point on, however, he shot 194-412 FG (.471).

He scored a game-high 30 points against the Clippers in Los Angeles, 1/17, and that was one of a season-high 10 straight games in which he scored in double figures.

That 10-game span was one of three streaks he had in which he scored 10+ points in at least seven consecutive games.

He scored 20+ points three times and averaged 17.1 ppg in that span to lift his average for the season to 14.0 ppg.

In all, he scored in double figures 53 times and failed to do so in consecutive games just four times with a high of three games in a row in single digits (3/23-3/26)

But, he would average 12.5 ppg in the final 43 games, despite five games of 20 or more points.

In the Pacers' 144-113 win vs. the Nuggets at Conseco Fieldhouse, 11/9, he scored 29 points on 12-14 FG, 4-5 3-pt FG and 1-1 FT.

Prior to that game, he had shot just 3-10 from beyond the arc in the first five games.

He made more than one 3-pt FG 11 times, including the game at New York, 1/2, where he shot 3-3 from beyond the arc on his way to 22 points. That tied the most 3-pt FG in a single game without a miss by any Indiana player this season.

He scored the 1,500th point of his career at Chicago, 1/29, and will enter next season needing 15 points for 2,000 in his career.

After shooting 41-114 (.360) in his first 67 games, he was 0-10 from long range in his final 12.

One of the NBA's best foul shooters this season, his 87.1 percent mark led the Pacers and ranked 12th best in the league.

He had a season-best streak of 27 straight free throws snapped when he missed a free throw from a technical foul whistled in the third quarter against the Sacramento Kings, 3/25.

After blocking just four shots in 76 games as a rookie with New Orleans, he rejected 14 shots for the Pacers in 2010-11, including a career-high two twice.

Both of his games with two blocked shots this season came at Conseco Fieldhouse: vs. Charlotte, 2/9, and vs. Washington, 4/6.

Including a season-high six on three separate occasions, he averaged a career-best 2.8 rebounds per game this season.

He claimed at least four rebounds 25 times, including six of the last 11 games and a run of three in a row twice.

While no Indiana player started all 82 games, his 79 starts tied Danny Granger for most on the team.

He missed three games in November (11/16-11/20) with a sprained left ankle.

Before breaking his left thumb in a game against the Wizards in Washington, D.C., 2/22, he averaged 11.2 ppg in 54 appearances, 44 of which were starts.

Averaging just 10.2 ppg, and shooting 18-52 FG (.346) in the season's five games, he exploded for a game-high 31 points in the Pacers' 144-113 win over Denver, 11/9. In that game, he shot 9-13 FG, 6-10 3-pt FG and 7-8 FT.

The Pacers scored a franchise record 54 points in the third quarter of that game against the Nuggets, hitting 20-21 FG, and he accounted for 24 of them on 7-7 FG, 5-5 3-pt FG and 5-6 FT.

The game with Denver was the first of four straight in which he scored at least 14 points and averaged 20.0 ppg. In those four games, he shot 25-44 FG (.568), 13-27 3-pt FG and 17-19 FT.

Those four games came during a longer stretch of nine in a row in which he scored in double figures, wrapped around the birth of his daughter.

That nine-game streak of 10+ points was his longest of the season and was one of three in which he scored in double figures in at least six in a row.

He scored 20+ points five times, including three games of exactly 20 and two of 30 or more.

Including 6-7 from 3-pt range and 12-16 from the floor overall, he scored 30 points in a win over New Jersey, 1/28.

Those six 3-pt FG came during a run of nine straight games with two or more from beyond the 3-pt arc. In that span, he shot 27-45 3-pt FG (.600). The game with the Nets and one at New Jersey (5-6), 2/6, were the only ones in that stretch in which he made more than two from beyond the arc.

For the season, he was one of two Indiana players to shoot 40+ percent from 3-pt range and his 40.2 percent mark (102-254) ranked 33rd in the league.

His 102 3-pt FG are his third most in a single season, and his most in a Pacers' uniform since hitting 165 in 2007-08.

His 3-pt FG in the game at Washington, 2/22, was the 400th of his career with the Pacers and he is just the sixth player in team history to reach that mark.

In his entire career he has made 771 3-pt FG and he hit the 700th long range bomb of his career at Milwaukee, 12/8.

His tip-in of a teammate's miss at the buzzer gave the Pacers a 94-93 win over New Orleans, 12/20. That was one of only three field goals he made in the entire game.

He had his best outing after the broken thumb in a losing effort at Orlando, 4/13, where he scored a team-high tying 16 points.

He had a season-high two blocked shots against the Hornets in New Orleans, 4/3, and he totaled 30 blocked shots on the season--his most since having 31 in his first full campaign with the Pacers (2007-08). 30 rejections is two short of his career-high set in 2003-04.

He blocked two shots a total of six times this season, including three in a row in December (12/10-12/13).

He passed out 105 assists this season and recorded the 1,500th assist of his career with the third of his four at Golden State, 1/19.

He had three or more assists 15 times in his first 42 games, but then had no more than two in any of his 14 games leading up to his three assists vs. New York, 4/10

He handed out a season-best six assists in the loss to Houston, 11/12, and he had five assists in a win vs. the Nets, 1/28.

Including the game vs. the Rockets, he led the Pacers in assists twice. He tied T.J. Ford for team-high with three assists at Boston, 12/19

He averaged 4.5 rpg in 2010-11, which was sixth best on the team, and his best in the last three seasons.

Though he has missed 21 games this season, his 40 steals are more than he had in 67 appearances last season and they rank fifth best on the team.

He had multiple steals in just three of the first 23 games he played, then had two four times in the last seven games of December (12/17 to 12/31).

He had more than one steal three times in his last 31 games and totaled 18 thefts after the start of the new year.

His wife, Sarah, gave birth to the couple's first child, 11/18, prompting him to miss the game with the L.A. Clippers, 11/18.

With his appearance in the 2011 postseason, his run of 627 regular season games played without an appearance in the playoffs (2nd longest among active players in the NBA, behind Troy Murphy, 655) will come to an end.

GUARD

A participant in each of the team's first 38 games, he played in just three of the remaining 44 and his only appearances after the coaching change (1/30) were a four-minute stint vs. New York, 4/10, in which he had three rebounds and an assist, and a 17-minute appearance in the season finale at Orlando, 4/13, where he had two points, two assists, two rebounds and two steals

Through the game against the Clippers in Los Angeles, 1/17, he was second on the team with an average of 3.6 apg.

In those 38 games, he had four or more assists 19 times, including a season-best nine off the bench at Phoenix, 12/3.

He had at least four assists in nine of the first 12 games, including seven straight from 11/9 to 11/22.

In those seven games, he had six assists off the bench vs. Denver, 11/9, tying for the team lead on a night the Pacers had a season-best 37 assists.

That game against the Nuggets was one of four in which he led the Pacers in assists in the first 11 games of the season.

Overall, he topped Indiana in assists 12 times--all of which came within the first 34 games.

In his 41 appearances he averaged 5.4 ppg and scored in double figures six times.

Three of his games with 10+ points came in consecutive games, as he hit for 11 vs. the Clippers, 11/18, 10 vs. Orlando, 11/20, and 13 at Miami, 11/22.

His season-high 13 points at Miami, 11/22, led an Indiana bench that outscored the Heat's reserves, 40-4.

He also had 13 points at Chicago, 12/13, and at Boston, 12/19.

He had no more than nine points in his last 15 games and averaged 4.3 ppg in that span.

He nearly had his second points/rebounds double-double as a member of the Pacers with 10 points and a season-high nine boards vs. Orlando, 11/20.

That game vs. the Magic was one of five in which he had four or more rebounds, and it was one of three games in which he had at least six boards.

He averaged a steal a game in the first eight games, but then had just 27 thefts in his remain-ing 33 appearances.

Including a season-high three thefts on four occasions, he had multiple steals nine times.

He had a string of three straight games with two or more thefts from 12/10 through 12/13.

He also had multiple steals in each of the season's first two games, including three against the Spurs in San Antonio, 10/27.

He also had six rebounds in the win at Miami, 11/22, and gathered eight boards vs. Memphis, 12/26.

He started the season 2-2 from 3-pt range and made 3-5 from long distance in his first four appearances. He then shot 2-27 from 3-pt range the rest of the season.

He shot a season-low 72.9 percent from the foul line in 2010-11, but was 31-38 (.816) after a 4-10 start in the first nine games.

Including 4-4 in the opener at San Antonio, 10/27, he shot 9-16 from the field (.563) in the first three games of the season. But, then shot just 82-220 (.373) in his remaining 38 outings.

As a starter this season, he averaged 9.0 ppg, 5.0 apg and 5.3 rpg, while shooting 12-35 FG (.343) and 3-4 FT. six of his 35 attempts from the field as a starter came from beyond the 3-pt arc, but he misfired on all six.

Including a season-high three vs. Atlanta, 11/16, he had multiple offensive rebounds twice in his three starts, but did so just two more times the rest of the season--collecting two vs. Memphis, 12/26.

On the active roster for all but one of the first 50 games, he was on the inactive list in every game leading up to his appearances in the final two games

One of just three players to ever wear a Pacers' uniform for 12 or more seasons, he played in just two of the team's first 19 games in 2010-11, and nine of the first 31, before playing in 47 of the last 50.

His 753 regular season appearances is fourth most in Pacers' history.

One of Indiana's all-time great rebounders, particularly on the offensive glass, he finished the season with 5,206 rebounds and 2,083 offensive rebounds--fifth all-time in total rebounds and third on the offensive boards.

On a per minute basis, he was one of the league's best in 2010-11. Among players with at least 50 appearances, his 17.8 rebounds per 48 minutes played ranked fifth best in the NBA.

After collecting seven offensive rebounds in his first six appearances, he would have at least three rebounds at the offensive end in 23 of his next 29 games.

In one of those 29 games, he had a season-high eight offensive rebounds vs. Portland, 2/4.

That was one of his seven games this season with five or more offensive rebounds.

Including a season-high 15 total rebounds vs. Chicago, 1/14, and again at Golden State, 1/19, he had seven games with 10+ rebounds

Second on the team with an accuracy mark of 47.9 percent from the field, he averaged 3.3 ppg and scored more than seven points twice.

He scored a season-best 10 points at Philadelphia, 1/10, hitting 4-5 FG and 2-2 FT.

In his best offensive game after the coaching change in late January, he scored eight points on 4-4 from the field in the Pacers' win over Atlanta, 4/8.

He made three starts this season, at Boston, 12/19, vs. New Orleans, 12/20, and at New York, 1/2.

He had his best all-around game of the season against the Hornets, scoring seven points on 3-4 FG and 1-1 FT, grabbing a team-high 11 rebounds, passing out three assists and blocking a career-high tying four shots.

As a starter, he averaged 3.7 points and 7.3 rebounds per game. In those three starts, he shot 5-9 FG and had five assists.

Including the game vs. New Orleans, he rejected multiple shots in five of his first seven appear-ances, and in a total of eight games this season.

He had more than one assist 12 times this season, but never had more than one after his two at Cleveland, 2/2.

He tied a career-high with five assists against the Clippers in Los Angeles, 1/17. That was one of his three games with three or more assists.

He missed nine games this season due to injury, six with a sprained right ankle (11/3 to 11/13 & 2/16) and three with a sore back (11/22, 3/8 & 3/9)

PLAYOFFS

One of just two players on the Pacers' roster who were with the team the last time it partici-pated in the NBA playoffs in 2006, he has aver-aged 5.6 rpg and 4.0 ppg in his postseason career.

He has shot 55.4 percent from the floor in his postseason career, fourth best in team history.

With 113 offensive rebounds in his postseason career, he is fifth on the Pacers' NBA playoff career list, while ranking ninth in defensive rebounds (156) and eighth in total rebounds (269). He is also fifth in postseason rebounding average (5.6 rpg).

He has recorded two double-doubles in his playoff career: scoring 20 points and grabbing 16 rebounds vs. Miami, 5/15/04, and registering 14 points and a career-high 20 rebounds at Detroit, 5/11/05.

Including three straight appearances with 20+ minutes to open the season, he saw action in each of the first six games, averaging 6.0 ppg and 2.8 rpg. However, he would play in just two of the next 23 games.

He was on the Pacers' inactive list for 15 straight games (11/28 to 12/28) before seeing two scoreless minutes at Washington, 12/29.

Beginning with that game against the Wizards, he would play in every one of the team's remaining 53 games and start the final 19.

In just the second of those 53 straight appearances, he recorded a career-best five steals vs. Washington, 12/31, tying the most by any Indiana player this season. Those five steals matched his total of the previous nine games he had played and represented just his second game with multiple steals.

To go along with those five steals against the Wizards, he scored 13 points on 5-8 FG and 3-3 FT and collected seven rebounds with an assist and just one turnover in 18 minutes off the bench.

After scoring a total of five points and shooting 2-6 FG (1-3 3-pt FG) in the ensuing two games (at New York, 1/2, and vs. San Antonio, 1/7), he scored in double figures in 14 of the next 26 games, culminating with a 12-point effort vs. Golden State, 3/1.

In those 26 games, he averaged 9.7 ppg and shot 93-197 from the floor (.472), including 19-68 3-pt FG (.279).

He also shot 46-60 FT (.767) from the foul line in those 26 games.

In the season's last 24 games, he scored at least eight points 10 times and hit double figures four times.

In his best outing of the season, he scored 23 points on 9-15 FG and 5-6 3-pt FG to go along with six rebounds, four assists, two steals, a blocked shot and just one turnover in 26 minutes vs. Washington, 4/6.

The game with the Wizards was one of eight in which he had more than one 3-pt FG and he had five outings with at least three field goals from beyond the arc.

He shot 29.7 percent from 3-pt range, ranking 10th among rookies with 50 or more appearances.

Including 5-6 against the Wizards, 4/6, he was 7-11 from beyond the arc in the last six games.

He shot 76.2 percent (77-101) from the foul line this season and ranked eighth best among NBA rookies with 50 or more games.

For the season, he was one of three Indiana players with 60+ thefts in 2010-11, finishing third with 62.

His average of 1.02 spg was third best on the team and ranked fifth best among all NBA rookies with 50 or more appearances.

Averaging 3.67 rpg this season, he had at least five boards 19 times with a season-high 10 against the Sixers at Conseco Fieldhouse, 3/8.

That against Philadelphia was the second of an 18-game stretch (3/5-4/6) in which he had five or more rebounds nine times and averaged 4.6 rpg.

His eight rebounds vs. Sacramento, 3/25, included a career-best four offensive boards and he had more than one offensive rebound seven times.

As a starter, he averaged 7.3 ppg and 3.8 rpg, in contrast to averages of 8.0 ppg and 3.6 rpg off the bench.

In his 19 starts, he shot better than 34 percent from 3-pt range (13-38), as opposed to 28 percent (28-100) from long range in 42 games as a reserve.

The Pacers' leading scorer for the third season in a row, he averaged 20.5 ppg, which was 16th best in the NBA and his third consecutive season of 20+ points per game.

He scored in double figures in all but four games and tallied 20 or more points 39 times with 30+ points nine times.

He scored a season-high 37 points in the Pacers' win at Sacramento, 11/30, hitting 12-19 FG, 3-5 3-pt FG and 10-11 FT.

In the midst of a season-best four straight games with 20+ points, he scored 32 points in losses in Los Angeles against the Clippers, 1/17, and at Golden State, 1/19. That was the only time he had 30+ points in consecutive games.

His four games in a row with 20+ points, 1/14-1/22, was the second longest streak on the team, after Tyler Hansbrough's five in a row.

His step-back jumper with three tenths of a second remaining in the game vs. New York, 3/15, gave the Pacers the 119-117 win.

He scored less than 16 points 20 times and the Pacers won just two of those games, including vs. Toronto, 1/31, and at New Jersey, 2/16. He totaled 11 points in each of those wins

His first 3-pt FG against the Washington Wizards, 4/6, was the 800th of his career and he is just the second player in franchise history to have reached that plateau.

Ranked sixth in the league with 157 3-pt FG, he has made 100 or more from beyond the arc in each of the last five seasons, joining Reggie Miller as the only Indiana players to ever have 100 or more in at least five consecutive seasons.

He has made 150 3-pt FG in each of the last four seasons and that streak is tied for the longest in franchise history.

Including a season-high six in the Pacers' first win of 2010-11 at Charlotte, 10/29, he made at least four 3-pt FG on 12 occasions.

His last game with at least four from beyond the arc came in the loss to New York, 4/10, where he made 4-7.

In his last 28 games he made more than two 3-pt FG just six times

Grabbing more than 400 rebounds in a season for the first time since 2007-08, and just the second time in his career, his 425 boards and 5.4 rpg both ranked second best on the team.

He had at least seven rebounds 21 times, including five games with double-digit rebounds. He had double-doubles in all five games with 10 or more boards

He was also second on the team with a career-high 203 assists and fell just 73 assists short of 1,000 in his career at the end of the 2010-11 season.

Including a season-high seven in the Pacers' win at Philadelphia, 1/11, he had at least five assists eight times and led the team in assists (including ties) 10 times.

That game against the 76ers was the first of a five-game span in which had five or more assists four times and averaged 5.4 apg.

The team leader with 89 steals, he had a string of five straight games without a steal in late January. At that point, he had accumulated 47 thefts in 43 games (1.09 spg)

In his 36 appearances under Frank Vogel's tenure as interim head coach, he averaged he averaged 1.17 spg and moved into the NBA's top 40 with an average of 1.13 spg. In those 36 games, he had multiple steals 10 times, in contrast to 16 multi-steals games in his first 43 appearances.

He collected a season-high four steals in the Pacers' win over Detroit, 3/30.

He was second on the team with 62 blocked shots, but had just 17 rejections in his last 29 games (0.59 bpg).

His two blocked shots at Washington, 12/29, lifted his average for the season to 1.07 bpg, which ranked among the NBA's top 40. However, from that point on, he totaled 31 blocks in his last 50 appearances (0.62 bpg).

He rejected a season-high three shots on three occasions and had multiple blocks in 12 games.

He had two blocked shots five times in the team's first 10 games, then didn't have more than one for nearly a month, when he had three vs. Cleveland, 3/17.

He missed two games this season due to injury or illness, sitting out at Chicago, 12/13, with a sprained left ankle and at New York, 3/13, with a case of strep throat.

He was on the Pacers' inactive list, due to a coaching decision, for the season finale at Orlando, 4/13

PLAYOFFS

One of just two players on the Pacers' roster who have playoff experience with Indiana, he averaged 8.2 ppg and 5.2 rpg as a rookie in the team's six-game series with the New Jersey Nets in 2006.

Appearing in 22 of the team's first 32 games, he averaged 12.90 mpg, 5.0 ppg and 3.3 rpg, while shooting 43.0 percent from the floor and just under 78 percent from the foul line (.778).]

From that point on, he averaged 13.7 points, 6.1 rebound and 26.1 minutes per game in 48 appearances--29 of which were starts

Coming off a four-minute appearance vs. Washington, 12/31, and a DNP-CD at New York, 1/2, he made the first of 10 straight starts vs. San Antonio, 1/7.

He made the most of that start against the Spurs, scoring 12 points and pulling down 12 rebounds with one assist, one steal and two blocked shots in 36 minutes.

He averaged 12.2 ppg, 6.0 rpg and 23.0 mpg in those first 10 starts.

He then spent two games on the inactive list with a case of pneumonia and upon his return came off the bench in 18 straight contests,

In that span, he scored less than 10 points just five times and tallied 20+ points twice, including what was then a career-high 26 points vs. Philadelphia--the most points scored off the bench by a Pacers' player this season.

That was the first of five straight games with 20+ points, culminated by his raising his career-high in points in consecutive games against the Knicks.

At New York, 1/13, he led the Pacers to a blowout win by scoring 29 points on 12-20 FG and 5-7 FT.

He followed that up with the first 30-point game of his career on 12-17 FG and 6-8 FT against the Knicks in a two-point win at Conseco Fieldhouse, 1/15.

Five straight games with 20+ points is the longest streak by any Indiana player this season and those five games were part of a career-high 13-game streak (2/27-3/19) of scoring in double figures.

In that streak, he averaged 19.2 ppg, shot 97-192 (.505) from the floor and made 55-74 free throws (.743)

He made at least half his shots in 14 of his last 20 games and shot 123-236 (.521) FG in that span. In his first 50 games, he shot just 43.0 percent from the floor (162-377).

One of five Pacers' players averaging five or more rebounds a game, he gathered in 5.2 rpg, but was third on the team with 145 offensive boards (2.07 orpg)

Beginning with his seven rebounds off the bench at Oklahoma City, 3/2, he had at least seven boards in 12 of 18 games. including four double-digit games and a career-high tying 12 rebounds in the Pacers' overtime win over Chicago, 3/18

On the season, he collected 10+ rebounds seven times and recorded double-doubles in all seven.

His 12 boards vs. Detroit, 2/23, included a career-high eight offensive rebounds, tying the most by a Pacers' player this season.

His six offensive boards in the game vs. Denver, 11/9, was his only one in his first 20 appearances with more than three offensive rebounds, but he would have at least four offensive rebounds 13 more times in his remaining 50 outings.

He had two steals in each of his first two appearances (at Charlotte, 10/29, and vs. Philadelphia, 10/30) then didn't have more than one in any game until late January when he had two at Portland, 1/22.

That game against the Blazers was the first of nine games with more than one steal in his last 41 games.

In the first of three straight games with multiple thefts, he tied a career-high with three steals vs. Philadelphia, 3/8, matched it with three more the next night in Minnesota and then had two steals at Toronto, 3/11. That was his most consecutive games with more than one theft in 2010-11.

After having more than one assist in just four of his first 60 appearances, he had at least two assists four times in his last 10 games and accounted for more than one fourth of his 40 assists on the season with 11 in those final 10 contests.

He started each of the last 19 games of the season and was part of a starting combination (Granger, Hansbrough, Hibbert, Collison, George) that finished the season 9-8. Of the Pacers' 13 different starting lineups this season, that was one of two that was above .500 and appeared in more than one game.

That starting lineup was also the second most utilized combination by the Pacers this season.

The two games he missed with pneumonia were the only ones he missed due to injury or illness this season.

One of only two Pacers (along with Danny Granger) to play in 80+ games this season, he was the Pacers' top rebounder and shot-blocker. He ranked 31st in the NBA in rebounds and 11th in blocked shots with career-best averages of 7.5 rpg and 1.75 bpg.

The third leading scorer on the team with a career-best 12.7 ppg, he was also third with 166 assists (2.05 apg).

Early in the season he was considered by many to be among the top candidates for the NBA's Most Improved Player Award after he averaged 16.1 points, 9.5 rebounds and 2.06 blocks per game in the first month of the season (16 games).

However, he fell off a bit and averaged just 10.7 ppg with 6.7 rpg in the next 27 games.

He started the season shooting over 51 percent (.514) in his first 21 games, but hit just 85-239 FG (.356) in the 22 games leading up to the Pacers' coaching change.

He re-emerged from his slump after Frank Vogel took over as head coach, averaging 13.2 ppg and 7.3 rpg in the team's last 38 games.

In the last 38 games, he shot 194-396 from the floor (.490) and hit 115-149 FT (.772). In the first 43 games of the season, he shot just over 71 percent from the foul line (.714).

He collected 10+ rebounds 23 times and had double-doubles in all but one of those games

His 22 double-doubles was the most on the team and he had seven in October and November, three in each of the next three months before having six in the final 23 games.

He led the Pacers in scoring with 28 points in the season opener at San Antonio, 10/27, tying what was then his career-high.

He would not score 20 points again until late in January when he tallied 20 in the Pacers' win vs. New Jersey, 1/28.

Including ties, he led the Pacers in scoring 10 times--eight of which came before the All-Star Break.

The game against the Nets in late January was the first of five 20-point efforts in a 12-game span that included a career-high 29 points twice in one week (vs. Charlotte, 2/9, and at Detroit, 2/16).

After the coaching change, he scored 20 or more points six times, including a team-leading 24 points in coach Vogel's debut vs. Toronto, 1/31.

The only Indiana player to have at least two assists in each of the first nine games of the regular season, he had multiple assists 48 times and had four or more assists seven times in the first 21 games

In the remaining 49 games he had more than three assists just six times.

He topped the Pacers in assists (including ties) 11 times, including four of the first five games, and the team was 8-3 when he led the team in assists.

His 1.75 blocks per game average is the highest by any Pacers' player, other than Jermaine O'Neal, since Dale Davis rejected 1.80 bpg in 1992-93 and it is the highest average for a Pacers' center since Rik Smits averaged 2.1 bpg in 1989-90.

He blocked at least three shots in five of the first six games, averaging 3.33 bpg in that span. In those six games, he blocked a career-high tying six shots vs. Milwaukee, 11/5.

He had more than two blocks in 14 of his last 75 games, and in just two of his last 15 appearances.

In 38 games under Vogel's tutelage he failed to have a block just eight times, including four games in April.

He claimed a career-high 33 steals this season, including a career-best three thefts on two separate occasions: at Miami, 2/8, and at Oklahoma City, 3/2.

Including those two games, he had more than one steal five times--three of which came after the coaching change.

He missed one game (at Golden State, 1/19) with an upper respiratory infection.

The player who may have benefitted the most from the Pacers' coaching change, he saw action in just nine of the team's first 44 games, totaling 64 minutes, 24 points and 9-21 from the field.

Beginning with the game vs. Toronto, 1/31, he made 31 straight appearances, averaging 15.0 minutes, 7.5 points and 1.6 rebounds per game in that stretch

After the coaching change, he shot better than 47 percent from the floor (.472) and shot 14-37 (.378) from 3-pt range.

After beginning the season 6-8 from the foul line, he was 63-82 over his final 36 appearances, including 6-6 FT vs. Atlanta, 4/8.

Scoring in double figures for the first time this season, he led the Pacers with 18 points off the bench at New Jersey, 2/6.

In that game, he rallied the Pacers from behind with 12 points in the second half on 5-8 from the floor and 2-4 FT.

Just three games later, he rallied his team from a seven-point fourth quarter deficit by scoring all of his team-high tying 19 points in the fourth quarter vs. Minnesota, 2/11, on 6-7 FG, 2-2 3-pt FG and 5-6 FT.

His two 3-pt FG vs. the Timberwolves tied his most in two seasons with Indiana.

For the season, he scored 10+ points nine times with five of eight points or more.

In his best outing in the team's first 44 games, he made his regular season debut at Philadelphia, 11/3, where he scored eight points on 2-3 FG and 4-4 FT with four rebounds and two assists in 11 minutes.

He scored the 2,500th point of his NBA career against the Timberwolves, 2/11.

Including his season debut, and two of his nine games before the coaching change, he gathered a season-high four rebounds three times and had at least two rebounds 20 times

He totaled 29 assists after the coaching change, including a high of four in 22 minutes vs. Philadelphia, 3/8.

He collected his first steal of the season in the Pacers' win over Portland, 2/4, and he totaled 20 thefts in his last 33 games.

He had his most steals ever in a Pacers' uniform with four against his former teammates in Memphis, 3/19.

That was one of two games he had this season with multiple steals. He had two thefts at Charlotte, 3/23.

In his last 11 appearances, he had 11 steals and six turnovers

He made his first start of the season in place of Danny Granger at New York, 3/13, scoring 18 points on 5-11 FG, 1-3 3-pt FG and 7-8 FT.

He also started the season finale at Orlando, 4/13, scoring seven points with two assists in 24 minutes.

He had seven blocked shots this season, including one in each of three straight games from Feb. 27 through March 2.

Ending his run of 31 straight appearances, he drew DNP-CDs in games vs. Detroit, 3/31, and Milwaukee, 4/1.

PLAYOFFS
A starter in all 16 of Denver's playoff games in 2009, he has averaged 6.6 ppg and 2.3 rpg in 23 career postseason games.

For the Nuggets in 2009, he averaged 7.0 ppg while shooting 38-79 FG (.481) in 16 games.

After having just two steals in seven career playoff games for Memphis, he had 13 thefts in his 16 games for Denver.

He played in all but seven of the season's first 43 games, averaging 3.7 ppg and 2.8 rpg.

He scored in double figures twice, leading the Indiana bench with a season-high 12 points at Sacramento, 11/30, and registering 10 points on 4-4 FG and 2-2 FT vs. Atlanta, 11/16.

In the game against the Kings, he shot 4-7 FG and made 4-4 FT.

Including those two games, he started the season 19-22 from the foul line (.864), but then made just 21-37 FT (.568) the rest of the season.

After scoring just four points in the first three games of the season combined, he had at least four points in 17 of his next 22 appearances-- from the beginning of November through the day after Christmas.

In those 22 games, he shot 41-82 FG (.500).

But, he would score more than three points in just two of his last 14 contests and he shot 7-36 FG in those games.

After gathering a total of nine rebounds (and no offensive rebounds) in his first eight appearances of the season, he gathered in double digit rebounds for the first time in his pro career with 10 boards off the bench in the Pacers' win over the Heat in Miami, 11/22.

That was one of his nine games with at least four rebounds and one of his five with at least six boards.

His 10 boards at Miami included his first three offensive rebounds of the season, and he had seven games with three or more offensive rebounds, including a career-best five in the Pacers' win against the Lakers in L.A., 11/28.

After Frank Vogel became interim head coach, 1/30, he was on the active roster just six times in 38 games and made just three appearances.

In his last outing of the season, he had one point, a team-high tying six rebounds, one assist and two steals in 26+ minutes at Orlando, 4/13.

His assist against the Magic was one of his 30 he had on the season. In two campaigns with the Pacers, he has totaled 32 assists in 91 games. In over 150 games (156) with Atlanta, he totaled just 26 assists.

He dealt a season-high three assists at Chicago, 12/13, and that was one of his eight games with multiple assists.

He had no steals in his first eight appearances, then had 12 the rest of the season.

He matched his career-high with two steals three times in 2010-11: at Chicago, 12/13, vs. New Jersey, 1/28, and at Orlando, 4/13.

One of eight Indiana players to have at least 20 blocked shots this season, his 22 featured a season-best three at Utah, 12/1.

He had two rejections the next game at Phoenix, 12/3, but then had multiple blocks just two more times with two at Chicago, 12/13, and two at Washington, 12/29.

He committed a total of 35 turnovers in 2010-11 and after having two or more in five straight games from 12/26 through 1/2, he had three in his remaining 10 appearances (106 minutes).

PLAYOFFS

In 16 career postseason games with the Hawks, he totaled 18 points, 24 rebounds and three blocked shots in 106 minutes.

He made the first start of his postseason career in Game 6 of the first round series with Miami, 5/1, scoring a postseason career-high six points with five rebounds in 22 minutes

In his first career playoff game, he had a rebound and an assist in three minutes at Boston, 4/20

He scored his first points in the playoffs on 1-2 FGS vs. Boston, 4/30

After playing a total of 17 minutes and scoring two points with two rebounds in the first six games of the first-round series with the Celtics, he logged 13 minutes in Game 7 at Boston, 5/4, scoring two points and collecting a postseason career-high six rebounds

Those six rebounds included four offensive boards--his only offensive rebounds of the series

He also blocked two shots in Game 7 vs. Boston, after having rejected one in the first six games…that is his only postseason appearance with multiple rejections.

After averaging just 3.3 points, 10.0 minutes and 1.7 rebounds per game in 83 games during his first three NBA seasons, he has had a breakout campaign, of sorts, in 2010-11 with averages of 7.4 points, 5.3 rebounds, 2.1 assists and 22.2 minutes per game.

A starter in each of the team's first 25 games, he began the season by scoring at least eight points in each of the first four games, averaging 9.5 ppg on 17-29 FG (.586).

In his next eight appearances, he totaled 19 points (2.4 ppg) with a high of six points vs. Orlando, 11/20.

He then averaged 8.7 ppg and shot 39-73 FG (.534) over the next 13 contests, before riding the bench for two games in mid-December due to coaching decisions.

He made appearances in just four of the team's last 12 games before Frank Vogel took over as head coach, averaging 9.0 ppg, 3.5 rpg and 19.8 mpg

That four game stint was highlighted by a career-high 20 points, eight rebounds and two blocked shots in a loss at Chicago, 1/29. In that game, he shot 8-11 FG, 2-3 3-pt FG and 2-2 FT.

That game against the Bulls was the last of his five games with multiple 3-pt field goals and he shot 23-60 (.383) from long distance on the season. After Vogel became head coach, McRoberts attempted just nine 3-pt FG with four made. He attempted none in the last 10 games.

He came off the bench in each of the last 19 games and flourished in that role, averaging 7.3 points, 5.0 rebounds, 0.79 bpg and 19.9 minutes per game. In those 19 games, he shot 57-96 FG (.586) and 23-27 FT (.852).

He made at least half his shots in 14 of those 19 games.

In his first 53 games he shot just under 71 percent from the foul line (.707) and hit 154-290 FG (.531).

He scored 10+ points 19 times, including a season-high three straight games in February (2/8 to 2/11) in which he scored 12 points in all three.

Versus Charlotte, 2/9, his tip-in of a missed layup by a teammate with 1:21 left broke a 102-102 tie and put the Pacers ahead for good.

In that game with the Bobcats, he came as close to a triple double as anyone on the team this season with 12 points, nine rebounds and a team-high seven assists--which was also his career-best. He also had no turnovers while logging 32 minutes in that game.

Second among the Pacers' big men with an average of 2.1 apg, he had three or more assists 25 times and at least five assists nine times.

He led the Pacers in assists five times, including his career-high seven vs. Charlotte, 2/9, and six vs. Toronto, 12/6.

Averaging 5.3 rpg this season, he collected 10+ rebounds five times and had three double-doubles, including a career-high 13 boards to go with 15 points in the Pacers win over Detroit, 3/30.

In that game with the Pistons, he claimed a career-high seven offensive boards--one short of the most by any Pacers' player this season.

He also just missed having double digits with nine rebounds in four games.

In all, he had 109 offensive boards, fourth best on the team and had at least three on 16 occasions.

His 22 rebounds in the season's first three games featured 11 at the offensive end, as he had five in games at Charlotte, 10/29, and vs. Philadelphia, 10/30.

He had five or more offensive rebounds five times.

Third on the team with 56 blocked shots, he had multiple rejections just one time (2 at San Antonio, 10/27) in the first 12 games. He then had at least two in four straight games, and six of eight contests, including a career-high four in the Pacers win against the Lakers at STAPLES Center, 11/28.

After having two blocks against the Bucks in Milwaukee, 12/8, he would have multiple blocks just seven times in his last 52 appearances.

His only game with more than two blocks in his last 52 was a team-high three vs. Utah, 2/25.

A participant in 41 of the Pacers' first 44 games, he played in just eight of the last 38 and made his final appearance at Orlando, 4/13, where he scored three points on 1-7 3-pt FG and claimed two rebounds with an assist in 20+ minutes.

He attempted 241 shots on the season and 88 percent of them came from beyond the 3-pt line, setting an NBA record for highest percentage of shots to have come from 3-pt range.

While he played in just eight of the team's final 38 games, and a total of 49 games this season. he was in uniform for all but two of those.

His only appearances on the Pacers' inactive list were for the game vs. Detroit, 3/30, and vs. New York, 4/10.

He had a season-high two steals vs. Orlando, 11/20.

Though he averaged just over 17 minutes a game (17.1) in 49 appearances, he was fourth on the team with 67 3-pt field goals and 212 attempts from behind the 3-pt line.

His 3-pt FG at Minnesota, 3/9, was the 1,000th of his NBA career.

He scored 18 points in his first five appearances, but more than doubled that total in his sixth outing of the season.

He had his best offensive effort of the season in a loss to Houston, 11/12, scoring 19 points on 7-12 FG and 5-8 3-pt FG.

The game with the Rockets was one of his six with multiple 3-pt FG in the first month of the campaign. He would have more than one 3-pt FG just 10 more times the rest of the season.

He scored in double figures five times, including three of the team's first 20 games.

The veteran forward averaged 3.0 rpg and nearly all of his 147 boards came at the defensive end.

He had just 10 offensive rebounds and had more than one just one time.

In claiming seven rebounds at Phoenix, 12/3, he had two at the offensive end.

That game against the Suns was one of his seven with at least five rebounds.

He had five-plus boards in three straight games, 12/13-17, but then had more than four boards once (6 at New York, 1/2) in his remaining 26 outings.

He had at least one assist in 25 of his first 41 appearances and had a season-high two assists nine times in that span.

His one assist against the Magic in the season finale was his only assist in his last eight appearances

PLAYOFFS

The owner of two NBA championship rings, he has played in more postseason games (65) than any other player on the Pacers' roster.

Including his 11.4 ppg with New Orleans in 2008-09, he has averaged 7.9 ppg and 4.8 rpg in his playoff career.

A starter on the first Memphis Grizzlies team to ever reach the postseason in 2004, he averaged a career-best 12.5 ppg to go along with 5.5 rpg in Memphis's four games that year.

He helped lead the Miami Heat to a title in 2006 by averaging 7.3 ppg and 5.7 rpg in 22 games.

He shot 35-83 3-pt FG (.422) in Miami's 22-game run through the postseason in 2006.

He was also a member of Boston's NBA Championship team in 2008, averaging 6.7 points and 3.6 rebounds per game in 26 appearances off the bench. He shot 35-83 3-pt FG for the Celtics in the postseason.

In 65 career playoff games, he has claimed 65 steals and committed just 51 turnovers.

On the Pacers' inactive list for 14 of the first 17 games this season, his three appearances in that span came when Darren Collison was out with a sprained ankle, 11/16 to 11/20.

As a backup to T.J. Ford in those three games, he averaged 8.3 ppg, 3.0 apg and 15.0 mpg. In those games, he shot 9-16 FG (.563), 3-9 3-pt FG and 4-5 FT.

In those first three games, he had an assists to turnover ratio of 3:1 and his nine assists included a team-high six vs. the Clippers, 11/18.

Including ties, he led the Pacers in assists eight times and dealt a career-high eight assists at Denver, 1/23.

He had at least four assists on nine different occasions, including four of the last five games of the season.

He capped the regular season with seven assists and no turnovers in 18+ minutes at Orlando, 4/13.

After having two assists and two turnovers against the Knicks at Madison Square Garden, he had more than one turnover in just one of his remaining 15 appearances and had an assists-to-turnover ratio of 3.50-to-1 (49:14).

Another player who saw his playing time, and production, increase with the coaching change in January, he averaged 6.0 points, 13.1 minutes and 2.1 apg in 13 appearances in the team's first 44 games.

After Frank Vogel took over as interim head coach, Price played in all but one of the remaining 38 games, averaging 16.9 minutes, 6.6 points and 2.2 apg.

Following the coaching change he shot 31-115 (.270) from 3-pt range, in contrast to 10-34 (.294) from long range before.

He scored at least four points in 35 of his last 43 games and had 10+ points six times in that span.

Coming off 13 straight games with no more than nine points, he exploded for a season-high 18 points in the Pacers' overtime loss to Phoenix, 2/27, recording all 18 points after halftime.

That game against the Suns was one of his five in double figures in his last 24 games.

He had back-to-back double-digit scoring games with 12 points vs. Philadelphia, 3/8, and 13 points at Minnesota the next night.

In the game at Target Center, 3/9, he shot 3-5 3-pt FG and he made multiple 3-pt FG in eight separate games.

He connected on a season-high four 3-pt FG in six attempts in the overtime game with Phoenix, 2/27.

His 3-pt FG vs. New York, 4/10, was the 100th of his career.

He started the season by hitting 10 of his first 11 free throws, but saw a steady decline in his foul shooting the rest of the season.

He was 44-70 from the line (.629) in his last 40 games and made just 7-19 FT in his last 12.

After having no more than four rebounds in the first 74 games of his NBA career (including his first 18 this season), he gathered six or more in consecutive games in February.

He led the Indiana bench with a career-high six rebounds vs. Charlotte, 2/9, then came back and topped that with a career-best eight boards--all at the defensive end--vs. Minnesota, 2/11.

Those two games and his five vs. Phoenix, 2/27, are the only games in which he has had more than four rebounds in his two NBA seasons.

Gathering more than one offensive rebound for just the fourth time in his career, and the second time this season, he had a career-best three against the Sacramento Kings, 3/25.

His six rebounds against the Bobcats, 2/9, featured two offensive boards and those are his only games with more than one in 2010-11.

He chalked up his only blocked shot of the season in a win over Detroit, 3/30. That was the fourth rejection of his career.

After serving an NBA-imposed five-game suspension to start the regular season for violating the NBA's substance abuse policy, he came off the bench to score a reserves-high 16 points, grab seven rebounds, pass out two assists and claim one steal in the Pacers' blowout win over Denver, 11/9.

Following three games (11/12-11/16) in which he totaled 14 points on 5-17 FG, 1-6 3-pt FG and 3-4 FT, he then scored in double figures in four straight games--including 20 points in the team's victory at Miami, 11/22.

Beginning with the game vs. Denver, 11/9, he played in 37 straight games, logging 20+ minutes in all but two. Then he didn't play at all in the next 10, spending seven on the inactive list with a sprained left ankle and drawing three DNP-CDs.

That streak of inactivity came to an end in the Pacers' home game with Miami, 2/15, where he scored three points on his only shot attempt of the game

He played in every game the rest of the season and logged 20+ minutes in all but nine of the last 30 games.

Beginning with a 14-point effort in the Pacers' win over the L.A. Clippers, 11/18, he scored 10+ points in 15 of the next 22 games, including three 20-point games and a season-best 26 points vs. Toronto, 12/6.

In that game with the Raptors, he connected on a season-high 10 field goals and made a career-high six 3-pt field goals.

His six 3-pt field goals in that game tied the most by any Indiana player this season.

Following his 12 points on 6-17 FG at New York, 1/2, he would score 10 or more points just nine times in his remaining 40 appearances and would do so in consecutive games just once.

He ended the regular season needing just nine points for 2,000 in his career.

With his fourth 3-pt FG vs. Detroit, 3/30, he moved ahead of Pacers' legend Roger Brown into ninth place on the franchise's all-time career 3-pt FG list with 281. He finished the campaign with 295 in his career.

On the season, he hit multiple 3-pt FG 25 times and made at least four from beyond the 3-pt arc five times, including 5-9 against the Magic in the season finale at Orlando, 4/13. That was his most 3-pt FG in a game after the coaching change.

In late March and early April, he had a string of five straight games with multiple 3-pt field goals led off by his hitting 4-6 from long distance on his way to a team-high 19 points in a 100-88 loss at Detroit, 3/26.

In those five games he shot 12-22 from 3-pt range (.545) and he ranked 19th in the league with a team-leading mark of 41.7 percent for the season.

With his two steals against the Magic, 4/13, he became the fifth member of the Pacers with 40+ steals (41) this season. That was three more than he had in 75 games as a rookie in 2008-09.

He collected multiple steals nine times, including two games with a season-high three steals in the span of five outings.

His first game with three thefts came in the loss vs. Memphis, 12/26, and the second at New York, 1/2. He led, or tied for the team lead, in steals in both of those games.

His average of 3.3 rebounds per game featured 15 games with at least five boards.

He claimed a season-high eight rebounds twice and had at least seven on eight occasions, including seven in his season debut vs. Denver, 11/9. Only two of those games with seven-plus rebounds came after he sprained his ankle in January.

He handed out 62 assists in 2010-11, including a season-best four twice--both of which came in the span of three games.

He had four assists to accompany his seven rebounds and 20 points in the Pacers' win at Miami, 11/22, and then had four to go along with seven points and five rebounds vs. Oklahoma City, 11/26.

He followed up the game with the Thunder by passing out three assists in Indiana's win over the Lakers in STAPLES Center, 11/28, but then had more than two assists one more time the rest of the season.

He had his most assists after the coaching change when he dealt three at Detroit, 3/26.

Through his first 14 games he was one of the best shooting guards in the league, having connected on 69-139 FG (.495). But, in his remaining 53 appearances he shot just under 40 percent (143-360, .397)

His dunk off a pass from Danny Granger with 5.4 seconds was the game-winner in a 102-101 win over the Pistons, 2/23.

After 57 games on the bench, either in uniform or in street clothes, he made his NBA regular season debut in the Pacers' overtime loss to Phoenix, 2/27, scoring scored two points (2-2 FT) to accompany two assists and a rebound in four minutes.

The game with Phoenix was the first of his seven straight appearances and he scored at least two points in each of those games.

He had at least two assists in each of his first six appearances and passed out 17 assists with just eight turnovers in those games.

In his first 12 games he had more than two turnovers one time, committing three in 12 minutes at Dallas.

After logging just four minutes vs. the Suns, he saw double-digit minutes in each of the next five games, including 20 minutes at Oklahoma City, 3/2, and 22 minutes at Houston, 3/5.

Against the Thunder, he scored in double figures for the first time with 11 points on 3-7 FG and 5-6 FT. He also had a season-high six rebounds in that contest.

After shooting 9-28 from the field in his first six games, he canned all three of his shots and totaled six points at Minnesota, 3/9.

He then went on to miss seven straight FGs in a span of four appearances from 3/16 to 3/23, before hitting his only shot vs. Sacramento, 3/25.

He had a steal in three of his first five outings, but had just one over the last seven games he played.

He played in none of the team's final nine games.

OCTOBER/NOVEMBER
OVERALL: 9-7; HOME: 4-5; AWAY: 5-2

After a rocky opening game of the season at San Antonio, where the Pacers were outscored 122-109, they came back and won their next two, including a spectacular 99-86 defeat of the Philadelphia 76ers in the home opener, 10/30. The following week, the Pacers dropped two in a row at Philadelphia and vs. the Milwaukee Bucks. But then came what might have been the highlight of the entire season, a 144-113 win over Carmelo Anthony and the Denver Nuggets. In that game, the Pacers set franchise records for points in a quarter with 54 in the third and in a second half with 85. The Pacers hit their first 20 shots of the period before Josh McRoberts ended the quarter with a missed 3-pt FG at the buzzer. Including that win, the Pacers won seven of their last 11 games in the month. Indiana kicked off a four-game West Coast road trip with wins against the Lakers and the Sacramento Kings. Its win at L.A.'s STAPLES Center was Indiana's first ever in that building against the Lakers and those two wins extended the Pacers' road winning streak to a season-best four in a row.

DECEMBER
OVERALL: 5-10; HOME: 5-3; AWAY: 0-7

The Pacers went through a bit of a scoring drought in December, scoring 100+ points just three times in 15 games and averaging 93.5 ppg and shooting just 42.6 percent from the floor. While the Pacers didn't win a single road game in the month, their 5-3 mark at home included wins over New Orleans, Charlotte, Toronto and Cleveland. Indiana had just two games decided by fewer than nine points and both of those were decided on the winning team's final possession. At Milwaukee, 12/8, Luc Richard Mbah a Moute's inbounds pass with a half second left on the clock was tipped by Andrew Bogut for a 107-105 win. Against the Hornets, 12/20, Mike Dunleavy tipped in Danny Granger's miss as time expired, giving the Pacers the 94-93 win. The Pacers said good bye to 2010 with an afternoon win over Washington on New Year's eve.

JANUARY
OVERALL: 4-10; HOME: 3-3; AWAY: 1-7

The month of January saw the end of the tenure of Jim O'Brien as head coach, as he was relieved of his duties and replaced with Interim Head Coach Frank Vogel on the 30th. Winning for the second time in the last three games of January, the Pacers got the Vogel era off to a rousing start with a 104-93 victory over the Toronto Raptors, 1/31. The Pacers started the month by winning just two of their first nine games in the month, but then won two of their last three, both at Conseco Fieldhouse. The Pacers played back-to-back games twice in January and won both games of a back-to-back for just the third time in 2010-11, defeating the 76ers at Wells Fargo Arena, 1/11, and then snapped a five-game losing streak against Dallas with a home victory over the Mavs, 1/12. The win at Philadelphia ended a season-long nine-game road losing streak.

FEBRUARY
OVERALL: 8-5; HOME: 4-3; AWAY: 4-2

After winning just one game outside of Conseco Fieldhouse in December and January, combined, the Pacers were 4-2 on the road in February and they finished the month with their most wins in February since 2005 and they finished with a record above .500 in a single month for the first time since January 2009. Its first three wins in the month extended the team's winning streak under Vogel to a season-high four straight. Though that streak was snapped by a loss at Miami, 2/8, the Pacers came back and won three more in a row, including a sweep of back-to-back games with Minnesota, 2/11, and at Milwaukee, 2/12. The Pacers headed into the All-Star break with back-to-back losses to the Heat, 2/15, and at Detroit in overtime, 2/16. But they swept another back-to-back at Washington, 2/22, and vs. Detroit, 2/23. That win over the Pistons ran the Pacers' record in home games the night after a road game to 6-0. The month was capped off by losses to Utah, 2/25, and Phoenix, 2/27, in overtime.

MARCH
OVERALL: 8-10; HOME: 5-2; AWAY: 3-8

The Pacers' 18 games in March tied their most ever in a single month and 11 of those were on the road. After a rocky start in which they won just one of seven games, the Pacers ended a six-game losing streak in the most unlikeliest of ways, with a blowout of the Knicks in Madison Square Garden, 3/13. The Pacers came back and made it two in a over the Knicks in a nail-biter at Conseco Fieldhouse just two nights later, as Danny Granger sank a pull up jumper as time expired. After a loss at Boston the next night, the Pacers knocked off two more of the Eastern Conference's elite teams with an overtime victory over the Chicago Bulls, 3/18, and a seven-point win over the Celtics, 3/28. Both Boston and Indiana shot over 54 percent from the floor in that game and the win was the Pacers' first in a game in which the opposition had shot 50+ percent from the field. The Pacers made it two straight wins in games that the opposition shot 50+ percent from the floor, closing out the month with a win over Detroit, 3/30.

APRIL
OVERALL 3-3; HOME: 3-1; AWAY; 0-2

With a mark of 3-3, the Pacers finished the month of April with a record of .500 or better for the third year in a row. After a thrilling last-second 89-88 win over Milwaukee, 4/1, the Pacers put up big numbers in defeating the Washington Wizards, 4/6, and the Atlanta Hawks, 4/8. In those two games, the Pacers averaged 125 points per game and shot 92-170 (.541). Indiana's 59.5 percent shooting vs. Washington was its fourth highest mark of the season Its win over Atlanta was its fifth straight at Conseco Fieldhouse, tying its longest home winning streak of the campaign.

MISCELLANEOUS TEAM NOTES:

A FINISHING KICK:

Having won 10 of their last 17 games, the Pacers are 20-18 under Interim Head Coach Frank Vogel.

The Pacers' loss to New York, was their sixth in their last 20 home games, and they were 7-12 on the road after Vogel took over as coach.

The Pacers were 13-28 outside of Conseco Fieldhouse in the regular season. That is four more road wins than they had all of last season

In 38 games under Vogel, the Pacers have averaged 102.1 ppg, shot 44.9 percent from the floor (1408-3135) and have outrebounded (or tied on the boards) 26 of their 38 opponents.

Through their first 44 games, the Pacers averaged 97.8 ppg and shot less than 44 percent from the field (.437).

Defensively, the Pacers held their last 38 opponents to an average of 102.8 points per game and those foes shot 45.4 percent FG.

DEFENSE WINS GAMES:

In 2010-11, the Pacers have held their opponents to an average of 100.9 ppg, 17th lowest in the NBA.

The Pacers held four of their last 19 opponents to less than 40 percent shooting and New York's 36.6 percent mark at Madison Square Garden, 3/13, was the lowest by a Pacers' opponent on the road since it held Milwaukee to 36.0 percent FG in December (12/8).

The Pacers opponents this season shot 44.9 percent from the floor and that was the seventh lowest defensive field goal percentage in the NBA.

The opposition failed to have 20 assists in six of the last eight games and at Conseco Fieldhouse, 4/6, the Washington Wizards were the third team to have an opponent season-low 10 assists and Indiana's last 16 opponents averaged 18.19 apg.

For the season, the opposition has averaged 20.37 apg, the seventh lowest mark in the NBA.

HOME COURT ADVANTAGE

Indiana's win over the Pistons, 3/30, was its 21st of the season, ensuring it of a winning record at home for a 22nd straight season.

That is the longest active streak in the NBA.

The Pacers tied a season-high with its fifth home win in a row with a 114-102 victory over the Atlanta Hawks Friday, 4/8. Indiana won 20 of its last 31 games at the Fieldhouse and finished the regular season 24-17 after a heart-breaking one-point (110-109) loss to the Knicks on Sunday, 4/10/

On their way to a 31-point win over the Denver Nuggets, 11/9, the Pacers put on an unprecedented performance at home.

The team's 144 points were one short of its most ever in a home game, and were its most ever at the Fieldhouse.

Indiana set franchise records by scoring 54 points in the third period an 85 points in the second half.

THE GOON SQUAD

In the 19 games after Tyler Hansbrough and Paul George were inserted into the starting lineup, the Pacers had two reserves score in double figures in the same game three times, including their win over Washington, 4/8, and the game at Orlando, 4/13, where Brandon Rush and Mike Dunleavy shared the team lead with 16 points apiece.

Indiana's bench has scored less than 33 points in just 11 of the last 35 games and averaged 38.46 ppg in that span.

The Indiana bench scored 40+ points 24 times this season, including 19 of the last 40 games.

IT TAKES A THIEF:

Including Darren Collison's three in 12 minutes, the Pacers had four players with multiple steals for just the second time this season, as they rang up 11 thefts in the season finale at Orlando, 4/13. Brandon Rush, Solomon Jones and T.J. Ford each had two steals.

Indiana's 11 steals as a team at Orlando, 4/13, represent its most thefts in the last 18 games and just the sixth time it has had double-digit thefts in the 38 games since the coaching change.

Since having no more than seven steals in three straight games in late February and early March, Indiana had fewer than eight steals in just seven of the last 23 games.

Though he totaled just three steals in his last four games, Danny Granger cracked the NBA's top 40 in steals with an average of 1.13 spg, 40th in the league.

After going nine straight games with no more than one theft, Darren Collison has had two or more thefts five times in the last eight games and he is 45th in the NBA with an average of 1.10 spg.

In 2010-11, Indiana has averaged 7.12 spg, 20th in the NBA.

RECYCLED:

The Pacers headed to their final three games of the season ranked among the league's best shot-blockers with an average of 5.68 bpg.

But, Indiana had a total of seven blocks in its last three games, including just one in the finale at Orlando, 4/13.

As a team, the Pacers had seven blocks vs. Washington, their most in the last eight games, and their fifth of more than six rejections in the last 24 games.

Behind its 146 blocked shots in the last 28 games, Indiana leapt to sixth in the NBA in blocks per game with an average of 5.56 bpg.

IN THE PAINT:

In their first 44 games, the Pacers averaged 36.045 ppg in the paint and scored 40 or more in the paint 11 times, including five games of 50 or more points.

In the last 38 games, the team has averaged 41.03 ppg in the paint, including its 54 points vs. Detroit, 3/30, and its 54 vs. Atlanta, 4/8.

Since allowing an average of 41.1 ppg in the paint in the first seven games, the Pacers have held their last 75 opponents to an average of just 38.773 ppg in the paint.

Indiana's 82 opponents this season scored just under 39 percent (.38641) of their points from inside the paint, and that is the second lowest mark in the NBA.

WE'RE DOING THE DISHES!

Since the Pacers changed head coaches in late January, they had 20+ assists 13 times and had recorded at least that many assists in four straight games until having just 16 assists in their season-ending loss at Orlando, 4/13.

Those previous four games represented the only time under Interim Head Coach Frank Vogel that the Pacers had 20+ assists in four consecutive games.

In the last 38 games, the Pacers have averaged 18.50 apg, as opposed to 20.6 in their first 44 games.

Indiana's average of 19.65 apg in 2010-11 was third lowest in the NBA.

In its first 33 games, Indiana's opponents had 20 or more assists just 14 times and averaged 19.69 apg, the third lowest mark in the league.

The last 49 Indiana opponents averaged 20.98 apg and Indiana's defensive average for the season (20.37 apg) was seventh lowest in the NBA.

FROM THE LINE

From the moment he took over the reins of the team, Interim Head Coach Frank Vogel put an emphasis on getting to the free throw line and, as such, the Pacers averaged nearly 29 attempts (28.13) in their last 38 games.

In the first 44 games, the Pacers averaged less than 22 free throw attempts (21.95) per game.

Coupled with the team's stellar shooting eye this season, the Pacers have outscored their last 38 opponents by nearly 90 points, 841-752, from the line. The Pacers were outscored by more than 110 points (866-751) in the first 44 games.

After attempting fewer than 20 free throws just nine times in the first 53 games, the opposition failed to get to the line at least 20 times in eight of the last 29 games.

For the season, the Pacers were fifth best in the league with a mark of 78.2 percent from the free throw line. That mark is second best among the Eastern Conference teams.

BACK-TO-BACK

The Pacers played 21 sets of back-to-back games and posted a 19-23 (.452) record in those games. The Pacers were 11-10 in first and 8-13 in second games of their back-to-back sets this season, including going 6-0 in the second game of Away-and-Home back-to-back games. Below is a chart showing their performance in back-to-back games.

REST FOR THE WEARY

Statistically, the Pacers play their best basketball when they have two or three days rest; however their record indicates they play best only on one day of rest. The Pacers average 103.3 points per game when they have two days of rest between games; and 103.0 points per game with three days or more of rest between contests. Shooting percentages and most other statistical categories are all higher in those 18 games; but in those games, they are 5-13. However, on one day of rest, shooting percentages and statistical categories are down; but the team has a 24-19 record. Below is a breakdown of the Pacers key stats and their record for the various amount of time off between games.

INDIANA VS. CHICAGO
2010-11 GAME-BY-GAME RECAPS

INDIANA 73, CHICAGO 92
DECEMBER 13, 2010 - UNITED CENTER

Playing without Danny Granger, the Pacers dug a quick 17-point hole. They recovered to briefly take the lead in the second period but ran out of gas in the fourth quarter as the Bulls went into overdrive, scoring 11 in a row and pulling away for a 92-73 victory. The Pacers shot just 35.7 percent and no player scored more than 13 points. The Bulls, on the other hand, received big games from star players Carlos Boozer (22 points, 18 rebounds) and Derrick Rose (17 points, 12 assists). Without Granger, the Pacers' starters were out of synch, missing six of eight shots and committing four turnovers in the first six minutes. Rose and Boozer were the catalysts in the opening 25-8 run. The game changed when the Pacers reserves entered. The Pacers scored 10 straight late in the first quarter, then put together a 16-2 run early in the second, taking a 34-33 lead on Josh McRoberts's put-back dunk with 5:18 left in the half. The Bulls quickly countered, however, stringing together a 19-6 run bridging the second and third periods to take a 52-43 lead. Indiana missed its first 10 shots of the second half and didn't convert until Dahntay Jones' drive nearly six minutes into the period. The Pacers hung around, closing to 67-65 early in the fourth after consecutive buckets by James Posey and Brandon Rush. Ford scored the Pacers' next six, including a jumper that cut the lead to 73-69 with 6:30 remaining, but the Pacers went nearly four minutes without another bucket as the Bulls put the game away. Ford had 13 points, four assists and two steals in 27 minutes off the bench. Rush scored 13 but was 5-17 from the field. Mike Dunleavy scored 12 but shot 5-14 FG, including 1-7 from the 3-pt line. Roy Hibbert managed just six points on 2-7 shooting, and Darren Collison scored nine points. The Pacers shot 30-84 FG (.357) overall and were just 3-19 (.158) from the 3-pt line. They were outrebounded 48-41 (29-14 in the second half) and had more turnovers (16) than assists (12).

INDIANA 86, CHICAGO 99
JANUARY 14, 2011 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

With Derrick Rose carrying the offense with 29 points, and a defense that limited the Pacers to 32.6 percent shooting overall – and a staggering 23.4 percent in the second and third periods – the Bulls controlled the game throughout on their way to a 99-86 victory. Danny Granger scored 22 for the Pacers but shot 8-23 from the field. The Pacers started relatively well, jumping out to a 17-12 lead midway through the first quarter. But the Bulls got a big lift from their bench, specifically Taj Gibson, who had six in a row to spark an 11-2 run that put the visitors up 28-22, and the Bulls wouldn't trail again. With an 8-2 surge, the Pacers cut the deficit to 35-33 early in the second quarter before the bottom fell out of the offense. The Pacers missed 16 of 17 shots in a span of more than seven minutes, while the Bulls put together an 18-4 run to build a 53-37 lead. Granger sparked a seven-point surge late in the third quarter that made it 70-61, but Rose answered with five of his own and the Bulls pushed the lead back to 81-63 early in the fourth. The Pacers provided one more push, cutting it to 90-81, but Rose ignited a decisive 8-2 run with a pair of buckets and an assist as the Bulls put it away. Granger added six rebounds and three assists. Mike Dunleavy scored 13 and was the only starter to make at least half his shots (5-10, including 3-6 from the arc). Hansbrough was 4-9 for 12 points with three rebounds and two blocks. Jeff Foster had 15 rebounds off the bench. The Pacers shot a higher percentage on 3-point shots (.389) than inside the arc (.311). Rose was 11-21 from the field, 3-6 from the arc for his 29 points, adding 10 rebounds and five assists. Luol Deng scored 17 points on 7-19 FG, adding five assists and three blocks. Boozer scored 14 and Kurt Thomas pulled in 18 rebounds. The Bulls shot 40-88 FG (.455) overall and were 7-20 (.350) from the arc.

INDIANA 89, CHICAGO 110
JANUARY 29, 2011 - UNITED CENTER

Josh McRoberts scored a career-high 20 points and Jeff Foster pulled down the 5,000th rebound of his career, but the Pacers lost control in the fourth quarter and lost, 110-89. The game was tied 70-70 late in the third, and the Pacers were down just 85-79 early in the fourth. But, Kyle Korver scored nine points in a 17-3 run that included three technical fouls against the Pacers, as the Bulls put it away. Carlos Boozer scored 24 and Derrick Rose 20 for the Bulls. The Pacers rode hot 3-pt shooting (6-11) in the first half to trail just 55-51 at the break as Rose shot just 1-7. McRoberts broke loose in the third quarter, scoring 10 in a row and 13 overall as the Pacers rallied to tie. But when McRoberts went to the bench, the Bulls quickly regained the advantage with a 13-2 run behind Rose – who scored 15 of Chicago's first 26 points of the second half to take an 83-72 lead. With A.J. Price providing a brief spark, the Pacers cut it to 85-79 with 8:59 remaining but would make just two more baskets the rest of the way as the Bulls pulled away. Indiana shot 3-17 FG in the fourth quarter and 12-36 (.333) in the second half. McRoberts made 8-of-12 from the field and 2-3 from the 3-pt line for his 20 points, adding eight rebounds and a couple of blocked shots. Danny Granger scored 19, adding six rebounds. Mike Dunleavy scored 13, but just one in the second half. Price had 12 points off the bench and Darren Collison had 11 points and eight assists. Indiana had just 15 assists and 13 turnovers and shot just 15-24 (.625) from the free-throw line. Boozer shot 11-21 FG and had 10 rebounds and four assists to accompany his game-high 24 points. Rose was 7-10 from the field in the second half and added seven assists to his 20 points. Luol Deng had 19 points, eight assists and six rebounds, while Korver scored 16 points in 21 minutes off the bench.

INDIANA 115 , CHICAGO 108
MARCH 18 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

The Pacers pulled out an inspiring 115-108 victory over the Bulls before a sellout crowd of 18,165 at Conseco Fieldhouse. With Derrick Rose scoring 19 points in the fourth quarter, the Bulls wiped out a 15-point deficit to force overtime. The Pacers took over quickly in overtime, scoring the first seven points including a 3-pt FG by Danny Granger to open a 109-102 lead and hung on from there, holding Chicago to 1-11 shooting in the extra session. Tyler Hansbrough scored 29 to lead the Pacers, adding 12 rebounds. Granger scored 19 and Darren Collison 17. Rose matched his career high with 42 points, with 18 coming from the free-throw line, to lead Chicago. The Pacers led by 13 in the first quarter (31-18), 17 in the second (62-45) and 20 in the third (79-59). They appeared to be coasting with a 95-80 lead with 8:41 left in the game. But Rose, who had been sitting due to foul trouble, re-entered with 8:11 remaining and took over the game. He scored 10 in a row and 19 of Chicago's final 20 points in regulation. The Pacers led 102-98 after a Hansbrough jumper with 1:07 left but came up empty on their next two possessions, while Rose went to the line and tied it up. In overtime, Hansbrough scored in the lane, then stripped Rose and fed Darren Collison for a fast-break lay-up that made it 106-102. Granger's 3-pt FG pushed the lead to seven with 2:51 left, and Josh McRoberts scored inside for a 111-104 lead with 2:22 remaining. Chicago scored the next four, including a drive by Rose for the Bulls' only bucket of overtime, to cut it to 111-108, but Rose fouled out reaching in as McRoberts went up for a shot. McRoberts made both free throws with 24 seconds left. After Kyle Korver missed a quick three, Paul George closed it out at the line. Hansbrough's shot 12-19 for 29 points and tied his career high with 12 rebounds. Granger shot 4-11 but was 8-9 from the line and had six rebounds and three assists. Collison had 17 points on 7-18 shooting and recorded eight assists. Hibbert had 15 points, seven rebounds and two blocked shots.

INDIANA VS. ATLANTA
2010-11 GAME-BY-GAME RECAPS
INDIANA 92, ATLANTA 102
NOVEMBER 16, 2010 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

There must be something about Tuesdays in Conseco Fieldhouse and third quarters. A week ago, the Pacers racked up a franchise-record 54 points in the third period on their way to a 31-point rout of the Denver Nuggets. Seven days later it was a completely different story. The Pacers managed just 16 points in the third period in digging a double-digit hole and couldn't climb out in a 102-92 loss to the Hawks before 11,133. The Hawks have proved a vexing opponent for the Pacers, who've dropped seven in a row to Atlanta and fell to 4-5 overall. Atlanta started the season 6-0 and then lost four in a row but has won the last two to improve to 8-4 overall. Indeed, many of the key items on the checklist of things to do against Atlanta were handled. Al Horford did not enjoy his usual success against Roy Hibbert, failing to produce a double-double for the first time in seven meetings while the young Indiana center had 18 points and 15 rebounds. Joe Johnson, who had averaged 26.5 points in his last four visits, totaled just 11 points on 4-12 shooting. The Pacers got 30 bench points and outrebounded the Hawks 42-30. In the third quarter, Josh Smith scored 12 of his 25 points, as the Hawks methodically turned a 50-49 halftime advantage into a 77-64 lead. Hibbert scored just four points in the second half and without his productivity inside, the Pacers struggled mightily to get quality shots. Granger scored 14 of his 22 in the second half, finishing with six rebounds, three assists and two blocked shots. Mike Dunleavy scored 14 and Solomon Jones 10 off the bench. T.J. Ford, starting in place of the injured Darren Collison (sprained right ankle), had six points, five assists and four rebounds. Smith's 25 led the Hawks and he added eight rebounds and seven blocked shots. Mike Bibby scored 16 with seven assists, Horford 16 with six rebounds and Marvin Williams, Johnson and Jamal Crawford had 11 apiece. The Hawks shot 50 percent but the startling numbers were at the 3-pt line. Atlanta, which entered the game 26th in the league at 31.7 percent, shot 8-15. The Pacers, on the other hand, were just 4-18 from the arc.

INDIANA 83, ATLANTA 97
DECEMBER 11, 2010 - PHILIPS ARENA

The Atlanta Hawks continued their dominance over the Pacers with a 97-83 victory at Philips Arena. The Hawks have won eight straight over the Pacers. Al Horford made sure to give Pacers center Roy Hibbert a memorable 24th birthday present in the form of another schooling on the court. Horford held the Pacers center to 3-14 shooting and six points, which tied his season low this season. Horford was only 7-20 from the field, but he made his presence felt in other ways by grabbing a game-high 16 rebounds and dishing out a career-high eight assists. Josh Smith had 21 points, seven rebounds, four assists and two steals for the Hawks. The Pacers were done in by a poor second quarter. The Hawks opened the quarter by scoring 17 of the first 20 points to turn a two-point lead into a 16-point cushion (33-17) less than five minutes into the period. Atlanta eventually got its lead up to 22 points at 43-21 on a three-point play from Indianapolis native Jeff Teague. The Pacers shot 33 percent and turned the ball over five times in the quarter. Hawks guard Jamal Crawford came off the bench to score eight of his game-high 25 points in the second quarter. The Pacers' leading scorer, Danny Granger, struggled to put the ball in the basket and scored 14 points, seven points below his season average, on 3-14 FG, including 0-5 on 3-pt FG. Mike Dunleavy led the Pacers with 16 points on 6-8 FG and 4-6 3-pt FG. The Pacers chipped away at the Hawks' lead until they got it down to 88-81 on an A.J. Price three-point play with 3:10 left in the game. However, they would get no closer.

INDIANA 93, ATLANTA 108
JANUARY 8, 2011 - PHILIPS ARENA

Josh Smith scored 14 of his 27 points in the fourth quarter, Joe Johnson added 24 points and the Hawks beat the Indiana Pacers 108-93 at Philips Arena. Danny Granger scored 16 for the Pacers, who seemed to lose focus after coach Jim O'Brien's technical foul midway through the third quarter. Indiana trailed by eight when O'Brien objected to a non-shooting foul called on Tyler Hansbrough and was whistled for the technical. Johnson hit the ensuing free throw, and the Hawks ended a 17-5 run with 1:51 left in the period to take an 82-62 lead on Smith's 3-pt FG. Hawks coach Larry Drew started a small lineup with forward Marvin Williams missing his fifth straight game because of a lower back contusion. Maurice Evans started at shooting guard to defend Mike Dunleavy, who finished with six points. Johnson was assigned to Granger, who went 1-5 from the field in the second half. Not long before hitting his lone 3-pt FG, Smith jammed in a putback of Jamal Crawford's missed runner to make it 76-59. Johnson and Horford each finished with six assists. The Hawks had 27 assists to Indiana's 17. Sixth man Crawford has scored at least 20 points in his last five games. Hansbrough made his third career start and second on two nights. Coming off career highs of 23 points and 12 rebounds in Friday's three-point home loss to San Antonio, Hansbrough finished with 10 points and five boards. The Pacers seemed flat less than 24 hours after blowing an 11-point lead in the fourth quarter against San Antonio and ending the game by missing 16 of 17 from the field. Indiana lost its seventh straight at Philips Arena and ninth consecutive in the series. Smith and Al Horford each pulled down 10 rebounds. Darren Collison added 13 points for the Pacers.

INDIANA 114, ATLANTA 112
APRIL 8, 2011 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

With Danny Granger setting the tone with an aggressive 28 points, and Darren Collison and Roy Hibbert both posting double-doubles, the Pacers put together their second consecutive strong offensive showing in a solid 114-102 victory over the Atlanta Hawks. In snapping a nine-game losing streak against the Hawks, the Pacers never trailed and led by double figures most of the second half. Atlanta was no closer than eight in the fourth quarter. The Hawks were led by Indianapolis native Jeff Teague, who scored 17 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter. The Pacers took control right away, rolling up 33 points in the first quarter on 13-22 shooting. The shots stopped falling in the second when Indiana shot just 7-23 but Dahntay Jones repeatedly attacked the basket to draw fouls and keep things moving at the free-throw line and the Pacers led 56-50 at the break. Granger was dominant in the third quarter, scoring 14 points including eight in a row as the Pacers extended their lead to 82-71 leading into the fourth quarter. The Hawks tried to piece together a challenge in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter, closing to 92-84 on a free-throw by Zaza Pachulia. But Jeff Foster and Collison combined to score eight points in an 11-4 burst that pushed the advantage to 103-88 with less than five minutes remaining. Granger shot 9-18 FG and made 8-11 from the free-throw line, adding seven rebounds to his 28 points. Collison was 7-10 from the floor for 16 points, adding 10 assists, four rebounds and two steals. Hibbert had 14 points, 11 rebounds and three assists and Tyler Hansbrough had 13 points. The Pacers shot 42-86 FG (.488), outrebounded the Hawks 49-36 and had 23 assists against just 11 turnovers. Teague made 7-10 from the field, 7-9 from the line for his 21. Joe Johnson had 17 points for the Hawks, while Jamal Crawford had 13, Kirk Hinrich 11 and Pachulia and Al Horford 10 apiece. The Hawks shot 36-76 FG (.474) and had more turnovers (13) than assists (11).

INDIANA VS. ORLANDO
2010-11 GAME-BY-GAME RECAPS

INDIANA 86, ORLANDO 90
NOVEMBER 20, 2010 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

They wiped out a seven-point deficit in the fourth quarter against an elite team with gritty defense and just enough offense. They put themselves in position to electrify a boisterous Saturday night crowd when James Posey's 3-pointer put the Pacers ahead 86-85 with 45 seconds left. But a defense that had done a sterling job of swarming Dwight Howard and forcing somebody else to beat them ultimately did just that when Jameer Nelson produced a three-point play with 33 seconds left to give Orlando the lead for good in a 90-86 loss to the Magic before 14,583 in Conseco Fieldhouse. They limited Orlando to .364 shooting in the second half, .333 in the fourth quarter. T.J. Ford gave the Pacers a much-needed spark with eight of his 10 points in the fourth quarter, six in a 10-3 run that wiped out an 80-73 deficit and tied it at 83-83 on a pair of free throws by Posey with 2:32 left. Orlando missed 10 shots in a row during that run. Howard scored Orlando's first 14 points of the period. Until Nelson's decisive bucket, the rest of the Magic were 0-10 from the field in the quarter. After Nelson put Orlando up by two, Posey got another look at a 3-pt FG but missed with 19 seconds left. The Pacers tried to come up with a steal but couldn't and eventually fouled Vince Carter, who made both with 9.8 seconds left to lock it up. Roy Hibbert led the Pacers with 19 points, 10 rebounds, three assists and a blocked shot but had just two points and four rebounds in the second half as he was limited to less than 11 minutes by foul trouble. Brandon Rush scored 14 off the bench. Granger shot just 5-18 FG and scored 13. Mike Dunleavy was 4-12 from the floor and scored 10. Ford had 10 points, nine rebounds, five assists and two steals. Howard had 25 points, 12 rebounds and three blocks for the Magic. Rashard Lewis scored 11 of his 21 in a 21-8 third-quarter run that gave Orlando a 71-62 lead. Jameer Nelson finished with 11. The Pacers were without starting point guard Darren Collison, out with a left ankle sprain.

INDIANA 96, ORLANDO 111
JANUARY 26, 2011 - CONSECO FIELDHOUSE

Indiana's struggling defense yielded more than 100 points and 50 percent shooting for the fourth time in five games, as the Pacers were beaten both inside and out by the Orlando Magic at Conseco Fieldhouse. Orlando racked up 16 made 3-pt FG, a record for a Pacers opponent, while Dwight Howard had 19 points, 16 rebounds, three blocks and four dunks as the Magic controlled most of the game on the way to a 111-96 victory. Orlando took control of the game with a 28-9 run bridging the first two periods that included six 3-pt FG, three from reserve forward Ryan Anderson, to open a 47-30 lead. A nine-point burst early in the third pushed the advantage to 80-57, Orlando's biggest of the game. Darren Collison sparked a 13-2 counterpunch by the Pacers, cutting it to 82-70. Indiana then surged again, scoring nine in a row bridging the third and fourth periods to close to 86-79. It would've been even closer had a 3-pt FG from Mike Dunleavy spun around and in, instead of around and out. Orlando put the game away with a 17-7 run that included three 3-pt FG and two three-point plays, with Jason Richardson scoring eight. The Pacers shot 41.2 percent and were 8-30 (.267) from the 3-pt line. Danny Granger scored 27 but shot 6-19 FG overall and 3-11 from the arc. Collison scored 21 on 10-18 shooting with four assists. Dunleavy and Paul George scored 10 apiece, with the rookie adding a career-high tying seven rebounds, two assists and two steals off the bench. Howard was 8-16 from the field for his 19 points. Richardson also had 19 with nine rebounds, while Hedo Turkoglu had 18 points, six rebounds, four assists and hit 7-10 from the field in a performance that crystallized why Orlando re-acquired the versatile forward recently in a trade that also brought Richardson from Phoenix. Anderson had 14 points, Jameer Nelson 12 with four assists and J.J. Redick 10. Seven Orlando players made at least one 3-pointer.

INDIANA 74, ORLANDO 92
APRIL 13, 2011 - AMWAY CENTER

With key players spending most -- or all -- of the game watching from the bench, the Pacers closed out the regular season with a 92-74 loss in Orlando's Amway Center on Wednesday night. Danny Granger and Jeff Foster did not play at all, while Darren Collison and Roy Hibbert did not play in the second half as the night belonged to the reserves, many of whom displayed the rust built up from weeks of inactivity. For the Pacers, this one was much more about resting up for their first-round playoff series with top-seeded Chicago. Brandon Rush and Mike Dunleavy scored 16 apiece for the Pacers, while Ryan Anderson had 14 for Orlando. The Magic took control right away with a 15-0 run in the first quarter while the Pacers missed nine shots in a row. Indiana showed life early in the second quarter with a 10-0 run capped by consecutive 3-pters from Rush, cutting the deficit to 33-26, but the Pacers would make just one bucket the rest of the half. The Magic closed the second quarter with a 20-3 run to carry a 53-29 lead into the break as the Pacers shot 25 percent from the field and had nearly as many turnovers (10) as field goals (11). Mike Dunleavy scored the final 13 in a 22-8 run in the third quarter that brought the Pacers to a 62-49 deficit, but that was the last of their challenges as Orlando pulled away. Rush had an unusual night, making 5-9 from beyond the arc but missing all seven of his two-point attempts to wind up 5-16 from the field for his 16 points. Dunleavy hit 5-10 overall, 2-3 from the 3-pt line, for his 16 points. No other Indiana player scored in double figures. A.J. Price had seven points and seven assists and Tyler Hansbrough produced nine points and six rebounds. The Pacers shot 31 percent from the field -- just 29 percent on two-point attempts -- and committed 18 turnovers. Anderson had seven rebounds to accompany his 14 points. Howard had 13 points and 13 boards, while Hedo Turkoglu scored 13 and Brandon Bass 12 for the Magic. Orlando shot just 44 percent overall, 31 percent from the 3-pt line and committed 28 turnovers -- and still won by 18.
